

Client:	Walsgrave Hospital
Location:	Coventry, UK
Products Used:	Wide range of Briton & CISA ironmongery

The new £400 million 'super hospital' in Coventry is one of the biggest hospital complexes built in the UK and boasts 250 top specialists in heart care, stroke, joint replacements, diabetes and cancer care to name just a few.

To complete the build, the hospital required heavy duty, high performance door hardware as well as an automated door for its Clinical Services Building, one of the largest modern healthcare centres in Europe.

The Briton brand from Allegion is well known for its comprehensive range of door furniture, door controls and security products, of which are designed and manufactured in house.

The advantage - fittings complement each other, providing uniformity and continuity on individual doors and throughout the building.
